Introduction to Generative AI

Course Description:

This course introduces the basic concepts and technologies behind Generative AI. Students will learn how AI models generate content such as text, images, and code by learning patterns from data. The course also covers common applications, key tools, and ethical considerations of using Generative AI in different industries.

Enroll